Advice for sale on weapons, protection

By The Daily Inter Lake

Thursday's militia meeting at the fairgrounds attracted vendors of materials outlining conspiracies, weapons maintenance, survival techniques and more.

The Noxon-based Militia of Montana group had scores of videotapes for sale. Some titles: "A Call to Arms," "Waco, The Big Lie," "Equipping for a New World Order," "Ruby Creek Massacre" and "Assault on Freedom."

There were cassettes and pamphlets outlining techniques used by a heavy-handed government and conspiracy theories aimed at undermining the sovereignty of the United States.

'It's a collection of information that people need to know what's going on in this country. The whole purpose is education, and to fight back on the erosion of our rights.'

— Randy Trockmann, Militia of Montana

"It's a collection of information that people need to know what's going on in this country," said Randy Trockmann, of Militia of Montana. "The whole purpose is education, and to fight back on the erosion of our rights."

Other booths offered books on survival techniques. The books covered such topics as hand-to-hand fighting, basic animal butchering, medical care in the field, how to train a guard dog, and weapons maintenance.

A man wearing a T-shirt that read, "Is Your Church ATF Approved Yet?" sold pamphlets books, newsletters and even bulletproof vests.

Some at the meeting said they were offended by the "extremist" materials that were displayed.

Militia meeting draws big crowd

By JIM MANN
The Daily Inter Lake

At first the discussion was about forming an "unorganized" militia in Montana. Then speakers at the podium voiced concern about an emerging, conspiratorial "New World Order."

But mostly, the crowd of about 800 at the county fairgrounds Thursday night was upset about the Brady handgun law, seeing it as further evidence of the erosion of constitutional rights in the United States.

"We're all afraid. We're afraid of the rights that are being taken away from us," said Joe Rogers, a Coram resident.

Flathead County Sheriff Jim Dupont, an invited speaker, urged the crowd to pursue political action to tighten criminal laws. Tougher penalties will be more effective in fighting crime than gun control laws, he said.

State Rep. Bill Boharski, R-Kalispell, called the Brady law an "unnecessary" mandate from the federal government. He said grass-roots groups have political power and should let politicians in Washington, D.C., know it.

The meeting drew people from as far away as Idaho and Washington. There was a contingent of "Militia of Montana" members from Noxon. But most people were from Flathead and Lincoln counties.

Meeting organizer John McGlothlin of Kalispell stressed that he is not advocating the formation of an army, because that would clearly be illegal. He said the Montana Constitution allows for the formation of a militia consisting of "all able-bodied citizens."

McGlothlin said that because the law permits an "unorganized" militia, he envisions a network of community-based groups that provide communications between neighbors who are armed and ready to organize if the need ever arises.

But some in the audience said people attending the meeting should organize.

"I'm not here to do a neighborhood watch or barbecue, I already know how to do that," said Rogers, who suggested that people get together for target practice, or to practice field-stripping a weapon or train in survival techniques.

If it wasn't overt, then it was implied that a citizens' militia is necessary for people to protect themselves from their government.

Randy Trockmann, a member of the Noxon group, said in an interview that a citizens' militia is necessarily detached from the federal government. He said he distrusts the effectiveness of the Montana National Guard, because it can be called out only with the approval of the president.

"I don't buy that," he said.

Trockmann said people at the meeting are frustrated with "the erosion of our rights" and fear an overly powerful federal government.

George Eaton, another Militia of Montana member, took the microphone to talk about the threat of the United Nations, an organization he views as the enforcement arm of the New World Order — a conspiracy of moneyed interests that aims to dissolve the sovereignty of the United States.

Eaton asked the crowd to say the Pledge of Allegiance, which it did enthusiastically. Afterward, he said: "I don't know how many years we'll be able to do this before they replace this flag with a United Nations flag."

Eaton said he fears the potential for international bankers "to control this nation through the use of U.N. troops." He cited numerous instances where U.N. troops have conducted training exercises on U.S. soil.

Eaton said he was at the scene of Randy Weaver's standoff with federal authorities at Ruby Ridge in Idaho.

"We were thrust into that situation not knowing how ruthless our government can be. Let's not have any more Randy Weaver or Waco incidences in this country," said Eaton, a Weaver supporter.

He predicted that conservatives and "true patriots" will "rise up and take control" of the political reins in Washington. "The (Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms) and the FBI will be taking orders from real patriots, rather than liberal communists."

Other speakers at the podium called for political action, some urging that Sen. Max Baucus and Rep. Pat Williams be voted out of office.

Organizers said they plan to hold another meeting.

Who are these people and why are they so angry?

To an extent that rarely has been seen in the Flathead Valley, expressions of discontent with government have surfaced recently. Some people are angered by a new county building-permit system. Others are circulating anti-tax petitions. One group, apparently spurred on by those with similar opinions elsewhere, expresses fear of a takeover by a "New World Order" and talks about forming a militia.

In a special report starting today, The Daily Inter Lake looks at these activities, their origins, their aims, their beliefs and who their leaders are.

'Militia' a response to citizen suspicion

By JIM MANN
The Daily Inter Lake

Fears that an Orwellian environment is emerging in the United States prompted John McGlothlen to organize meetings in Kalispell recently to gauge interest in a citizens militia.

The meetings became a platform for people to vent frustration about what they see as the erosion of constitutional rights. Speakers shared their suspicions of a government they view as increasingly dominating and dangerous. Their list of worries includes gun control measures, a looming federal deficit, growing taxes, police raids, property seizures and a federal bureaucracy that is overwhelming local government.

The rhetoric at the meetings turned militant at times, with speakers talking about the day when citizens will have to "go to war" with their government.

McGlothlen, a 47-year-old drywall contractor who has lived in the Flathead since 1973, has emphatically distanced himself from neo-Nazis, skinheads and other "hate groups." But he concedes that the meetings have attracted extreme elements.

"I would say the percentage is really small," he said. "The way I see it is that they are not a problem or much of a factor in this. Usually, when they find out that (the meetings) are not a scary, secretive thing, they go back to their bar stools and talk with each other secretly."

McGlothlen says he originally billed the meetings as "law reviews" for people to openly discuss their concerns — even their extreme concerns. From the very beginning, he has referred to an obscure section of the Montana Constitution that he says provides for an "unorganized militia" made up of "all able-bodied citizens."

"All able-bodied citizens in the state are already part of the militia," is the way he explains it.

Most of the people who attended the meetings are law-abiding citizens who have legitimate concerns but feel powerless to do anything about them, McGlothlen said.

"They feel like they have no power, like they're being run over" by big government.

"There's some people out there who are paranoid. But there's a lot of people out there who are not paranoid. They are just supremely suspicious of our federal government."

McGlothlen is also frustrated and suspicious. The IRS seized his home in Evergreen five years ago because he failed to file income tax returns and has not paid taxes since 1977.

McGlothlen maintains that the

"I feel the IRS and the Federal Reserve were put in place to steal the wealth of this nation."

Suspicion

seizure of his home was illegal. He contends that the 16th Amendment, granting Congress the power to levy and collect taxes on income, was never legitimately ratified, and he questions the IRS's authority because the amendment doesn't have an "enforcement clause" with parameters for collecting taxes.

"I will never file (income tax returns) again," he said. "I feel the IRS and the Federal Reserve were put in place to steal the wealth of this nation."

McGlothlen says Congress has abdicated its responsibilities for overseeing the monetary policies of the country to the Federal Reserve, which is no longer a branch of government accountable to Congress, but a council of banks with a director appointed by the president.

He believes Congress has exceeded its constitutional powers by allowing government to grow well beyond the ability of taxpayers to support it. Deficit spending, he said, is putting the country in a position where it is dependent on other countries and in danger of financial collapse.

McGlothlen stresses that he is trying to resolve his troubles with the IRS through the courts, and those problems have nothing to do with his efforts to organize the recent "militia" meetings at the Flathead County Fairgrounds.

He said the purpose of the meetings was mainly to create a platform for open dialogue on political and social issues that he and many people are interested in. By networking with similar militia groups that are organizing elsewhere in the state and the country, he said people can gain political clout.

But at the same time, he said, the loose network of groups can become a militia should an emergency ever arise.

"There is a purpose for a militia," McGlothlen said. "If the government went totally berserk tomorrow, we'd be in deep trouble."

And he does not feel secure with the National Guard, because "it is owned by the government, not the people.

"The bottom line is that militia forces should outnumber anything the government can throw at them 20-to-1," he said.

Discussions at the meetings and materials circulated by some present have dealt with the recent, disastrous federal raid of the Branch Davidian compound in Waco, Texas, and the standoff between federal agents and Randy Weaver in northern Idaho.

One speaker said those incidents showed "how ruthless our government can be."

McGlothlen says people are afraid of their government.

They are concerned about technology that enables government to monitor citizens, and they feel they have little or no control over federal mandates that are heaped on local government.

They point to the dozens of gun control bills proposed in Congress and the support of gun control measures by top-ranking government officials. They argue that the Brady law's five-day waiting period for the purchase of a handgun is just the first step toward disarming the public.

That, says McGlothlen, has people extremely upset.

Many of those who attended the meetings agree on a "New World Order" conspiracy theory — a supposed network of wealthy individuals and political leaders working to undermine the sovereignty of the United States for the purpose of creating a "one-world government."

Advocates of the theory maintain that the United Nations is the political and military organization that is implementing the New World Order.

McGlothlen said he has long been suspicious of the now defunct League of Nations, the United Nations, and other organizations that create an "interdependence" between the United States and other countries.

Another purpose of the militia meetings, he said, is to dispel or confirm evidence of the New World Order by providing a forum for open communication.

"My theory on all of this stuff is to get it out in the open," he said. "I think a lot of people have a lot of legitimate fears about their government."

Third 'militia meeting' draws 150 people

By JIM MANN
The Daily Inter Lake

Rumblings over big government and the "New World Order" resumed Thursday at a meeting that attracted a smaller crowd than similar past gatherings.

The first meeting of a group discussing formation of a militia in Kalispell drew about 400 people, the second about 600 and Thursday's meeting at the Flathead County Fairgrounds attracted about 150.

Meeting organizer John McGlothlen told the crowd he had no explanation for the decline in attendance, other than speculating that rumors of federal agents screening the meeting may have kept people away.

Members of the Militia of Montana, a Sanders County group, were present, just as they were at the last meeting. They sold videotapes, cassettes and pamphlets that describe, among other things, growing evidence of the so-called New World Order — an alleged conspiracy of moneyed interests around the world that threatens the sovereignty of the United States, and more importantly, local government.

Garrick Hanson of Whitefish told the crowd to show restraint until there is no choice other than to "go to war" to protect their rights.

"We want to keep our powder dry and be ready before we go to war, because that's our last resort," he said.

Hanson discussed his legal battles with local judges and prosecutors — conflicts that ensued, he says, because he was tried twice for the same crime.

He expressed frustration with a legal system that has been rendered indecipherable to the common person, but he urged people to "never give up" in fighting for their rights.

Jess Quinn, an organizer of a group that is fighting to rescind the county building permit program, told listeners to work within the law and to support local government until there are no other options.

He said there are local government officials who are caught between angry taxpayers and an increasingly dominating federal government.

Big government, he said, is dividing Montanans and pushing them to revolt.

"They're going to push us so far we might not be able to stop that," Quinn said.

And people are ready, he said: "I know people in northern Washington who have sniper squads set up. When the hour strikes, there will be public officials dead in the streets."

McGlothlen stressed that every person in the state is already a part of the militia.

He said that until an emergency arises, the militia meetings serve as a way for people to communicate and organize politically.

People attending the meeting were asked to contribute their names to "calling trees."

Militia meetings are held elsewhere in the state and the country, involving people who want to network with each other.

"We want to get these groups of people coordinated. With this many people, we can pull elections," McGlothlen said.

THE MILITIA

"A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free state, the right of the people to keep and bear arms, shall not be infringed."

The following accounts regarding "militias" will explain why our founding fathers included the militia in the 2nd Amendment when they had already provided provisions for the militia in the first and second Articles of the Constitution, and reflects the urgent requirement for a "militia" today.

HISTORY OF THE MILITIA

The history of the militia goes back almost to the beginning of time. I will cover just a few examples as to how the militia was used.

54 B.C.: Caesar's invasion of Britain .

On this day Caesar landed at Britain with 23,000 troops, with some 800 support vessels. The total number of full time military facing them was numbered at about 500 in all between the "four Kings of Kent".

A man by the name of Cassivellaunus was made the commander-in-chief of the forces of Britain. Cassivellaunus knew that he wouldn't stand a chance against Caesar's 23,000 troops. It was time to call out the militia. Cassivellaunus martialed the individual forces of the land owners, freemen and men at arms. Thenceforth, they set out on a campaign of harassment against Caesar.

To make a long story short, on the 13th of August after, in Caesar's words, "in extracting tribute and prisoners for the Brits" embarked and left Britain forever more, having "conquered" the coveted British Isles for the glory of Rome.

The fact is, the militia defended Britain and forced Caesar and his army to leave.

Finland

In little Finland, when Russian troops attacked, they were ready, and for several months the militia were able to respond and not only repel the invading Russian troops, but actually gain territory from them in bitter winter fighting. When Russia made a secret defense pact with China, who was embroiled in a civil war itself, it allowed it to move troops into Finland and fight them to a stand still, then regain territory, then take territory, but in such bitter fighting that a peace treaty followed. It was not as a result of the standing army, nor mass enlistments and training during the conflict. Finland's freedom was the result of its militia. After World War II Finland was the only former German friend or ally besides Spain that did not fall into the Soviet sphere of influence, or came under the heal of occupation by a foreign power. But, Spain had not participated in any hostilities as Finland had. Why? Because Finland and its militia was once again ready to defend itself from Russia or from the invading victorious Allies.

Afghanistan

In Afghanistan, the central government was corrupted, and became a communist-marxist state instead of a Moslem-socialist state as mandated by its constitution. A civil war broke out between the standing army of Afghanistan and the citizens of the state who would not give up their Moslem religion. The people hastily formed militia units who fought a protracted civil war against the oppressive central government and its ally, the Soviet Union, for 11 years, finally winning. Never did the several militias ever unite, or become uniformed, trained, or equipped into a formal standing army. They retained, for the entire 11 years, the militia organization, training, methods and small arms equipment, and defeated the largest military power in the world doing so. Remember, Afghanistan was the Russian equivalent to America's war in Vietnam.

"A man's home is his castle"
The Magna Charta

On the 19th of June, 1215, the barons of King John appeared before him, bearing arms, compelling him under force, to sign what is called the Magna Charta (Magna Carta). This Great Charter was a pact between the crown and the citizen's of England, declaring the rights and liberties of the citizen's, which included the right to "keep and bare arms". The arms spoken of were not specified, but was implied to be the articles of war that were necessary to go into battle. Thus, for the Knights and Nobles, this likewise meant castles with moats, ramparts, draw bridges, etc., and all of the other paraphernalia of a castle and needs to secure it. Thus comes the comment, "a mans home is his castle," meaning that a man had a right to fortify his home against any who may assault it, and likewise, have right to defend it in like manner.

The right to keep and bear arms and defending his home "like a castle," was passed down from generation to generation.

The militia and the founding of America

Our founding fathers were schooled in these lessons of history, in fact most of them were quite fluent in Latin, Greek, and many of them in Hebrew. They read and knew of the Gaelic Campaigns of Caesar, The Greek City States, and many other books written about the military history of each of the nations and why they either excelled as a nation, or failed as a society.

Our founding fathers were wise to the ways of the world in Europe, Asia, and in the Spanish possessions in Central and South America. They knew that without the militia they would never succeed - and so history has proven.

The true purpose of the 2nd Amendment

There was much discussion during the constitutional convention as to how the states would secure their sovereignty and liberties from a national government. They were afraid that sooner or later there would come a time that this nation might be attacked or that the government would turn into a monarchy. They established the three branches of government, with the separation of powers. To further ensure that this nation could not be subverted from within, they protected the right of the militia of the several states to keep and bear arms through the second amendment.

The majority of American's today, believe the reason that our fore fathers wanted the people to have the right to keep and bear arms was for the purpose of self defense against criminals, hunting, etc. This is NOT the primary reason for the enactment of the 2nd Amendment. Let's let Thomas Jefferson explain it for us:

"The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bear arms is, as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government"
-Thomas Jefferson-

Thomas Jefferson also understood that those who would attempt to take away the liberty of the citizen's of this nation must first disarm them. He knew what their argument for infringing on the second amendment would be and what their argument would be for abusing it. We are all familiar with the Anti-gun advocates argument, that if we take away the guns of the people, we will lower the crime rate.

But this argument was dealt with by Thomas Jefferson when he copied in his Commonplace Book, the words of the Italian philosopher Cesare Beccaria in 1775:

"False is the idea of utility...that would take fire from men because it burns, and water because one may drown in it; that has no remedy for evils except destruction (of liberty). The laws that forbid the carrying of arms are laws of such nature. They disarm only those who are neither inclined nor determined to commit crimes such laws serve rather to encourage than to prevent homicides, for an unarmed man may be attacked with greater confidence than an armed man."

Our founding fathers were very familiar with the words of Beccaria, and they no doubt knew this quote by Lord George Littleton:

"To argue against any breach of liberty from the ill use that may be made of it, is to argue against liberty itself, since all is capable of being abused."

Most of our founding fathers served in the militia, including George Washington, who commanded the Virginia Militia during the French-Indian War. They all had a vision and intimate knowledge of the militia as being the source for the protection of the rights of the people, local government rights and the Constitution. They had fought the French Regular Army and along side their brothers the British Army, as militia. During the Revolution, they had fought, some as militia and others as regular troops of the Army of the United States of America, along side the French Army, against both Tory Militia, Regular British and German troops.

They also knew that if in the future that our constitution was not interpreted according to the history in which it was drafted, we would not have a proper understanding of the original intent of our founding fathers, or in the words of James Madison, primary author and supreme expert on the Constitution:

"do not separate text from historical background. If you do, you will have perverted and subverted the Constitution, which can only end in a distorted, bastardized form of illegitimate government."

THE MILITIA IN FOREIGN NATIONS

The militia is not new or unique to America. There are many nations who have had both good and bad experiences with the militia.

In current Croatia, Bosnia-Herzegovina, and Yugoslavia, we have seen that it has been by and through the militia that Croatia gained its independence, Bosnia would have been overrun by the regular forces of Yugoslavia without a militia, and Yugoslavia would be under attack from a foreign nation if it were not for a nearly one million man armed militia.

In Iraq, there exist two separate militia forces, one in the north, and one in the south. Currently the United States, and United Nations, are in the process of helping those militia maintain peace and security from their own country and President from attacking them. If it were not for the militia of the Kurds and Suni Muslims in Iraq, it is a documented fact that the nation in which they live would be practicing a genocidal war upon them. The militia of the Kurds and Suni is the only thing that stands between them and death.

In Greece, Rome and Israel, a militia was used for many years. However, as these nations passed into time and history, they all went away from the concept of a militia as the security backbone, to a standing army, and finally to either a king or emperor who had total and complete control over the military just as the National Guard Act does currently in the United States. The result is obvious, Greece, Rome and Israel all passed into oblivion.

NATIONAL GUARD - VS - THE MILITIA

Most Americans today believe that The National Guard is the Militia reserved to the states in the State Constitutions and the Constitution of the United States of America. Nothing could be further from the truth.

To begin with, the National Guard did not even exist in 1775, 1787, 1791 or even all of the 1800's. It was created by Congress as the Act of January 21, 1903, known by the name of it's sponsor as "The Dick Act." In fact, the 1982 Subcommittee on the Constitution of the Senate Judiciary Committee, says this:

"That the National Guard is not the 'militia' referred to in the Second Amendment is even clearer today. Congress had organized the National Guard under its power to 'raise and support armies' and not its power to 'Provide for organizing, arming and disciplining the militia.' The modern National Guard was specifically intended to avoid status as the constitutional militia, a distinction recognized by 10 U.S.C. 311(a)."

Also, the arms and ammunition, etc., of the National Guard are owned and controlled by the government, not by "the people" as clearly stipulated in the Second Amendment.

In 1913 as the potential for war in Europe began to be taken seriously, President Wilson enacted the Reserve Officer Training Act, and put with colleges small military units that were to train officers for the reserve forces of the U.S. Army. In 1916, when the war was then in full bloom, Teddy Roosevelt asked Wilson for a commission as a General, and volunteered to raise a militia army, just as he did in the Spanish-American War, and lead it into battle in Europe, as he did in Cuba. Wilson reacted as any cold blooded politician would, and eliminated the militia in the United States, unilaterally, on June 3, With U.S. Code, Title 32, which completely altered the definition of the militia and its service, who controlled it, and what it was. Without knowing it or realizing it, title 32 violated every article and section of the Constitution and the Second Amendment. For instance the law;

* Made the National Guard part of the Armed Forces of the United States.

* Made the National Guard "federally recognized," instead of state recognized.

* Active duty was now at the discretion of the U.S. military, not by call out of governor or legislature.

* Finances the National Guard from the U.S. Treasury.

* The Guard is placed under the direct command of the "staff corps of the Army as the Secretary of the Army may authorize." Thus also placing them under the direct command of the Secretary of the Army.

* Made the president the commanding officer of the national guard, not a president, but as the senior officer, making it a private army of the president. (32 USCS 104, c,d,e,f,)

* On July 9, 1918, the difference between National Guard and Regular Army was swept away, and became a personnel pay folder classification only, thus nationalizing the entire National Guard into the Regular standing Armies of the United States.

* If the state does not conform to the law, all money to the state may be withheld by order of the president. (Section 108)

And in Section 110, finally puts the nail in the coffin of every principle of freedom and liberty in America with:

* "The President shall prescribe regulations, and issue orders necessary to organize, discipline, and govern the National Guard."

thus, making the president a dictator over the very people that were thought by the Founding Fathers to be the last vestiges of hope in keeping and maintaining the vigil against tyranny, oppression and a dictatorship.

STATE REACTION

Each state was forced to quickly comply to the new law, or risk loss of funding, aid, and support from the federal government. In Montana, the legislature responded with Title 10, Military Affairs and Disaster and Emergency Services, which states in 10-1-104 MCA: Federal regulations to govern.

"Federal laws and regulations, forms, precedents, and usages relating to and governing the armed forces of the United States and militia, including The Uniform Code of Military Justice, shall, insofar as they are applicable and not inconsistent with the constitution of this state, apply to and govern the military forces of this state, including all members of the national guard on active duty within the state as active duty guard/ reserve (AGR) personnel under Title 32, U.S.C."

Other states quickly capitulated, with Massachusetts being the last, in the 1950's. Besides the State of Montana stating that the federal rules and regulations were to be in compliance with the state constitution they also reserved to themselves by definition and organization a remnant of the militia. In title 10-1-104 they provided:

"Classes of militia. The classes of the militia are:

(1) the organized militia, which consists of the national guard and the Montana home guard;

(2) the unorganized militia, which consists of the members of the militia who are not members of the organized militia."

They divided the militia into two classes, the organized militia which consists of the national guard and the Montana Home Guard, both of these must follow all rules and regulations of the federal government. The second class of militia is the unorganized militia. The unorganized militia is made up of all able-bodied citizen's of this state who are not members of the organized militia and as such are not recognized or supported by the federal government, therefor, the unorganized militia conforms with "Militia" as provided for in the second amendment.

MILITIAS THAT HAVE BEEN DISBANDED

What has happened in nations where the militia once existed and then was disbanded. We do not hear of little East Timor, who, by the power of a militia overthrew a central government oppressive to the right of the people, and was backed by the foreign nation of Indonesia. When they won the war, the militia was disbanded, and weapons collected. In three months, Indonesia attacked, with the aid of the United States, and captured and annexed East Timor, as a nation it no longer exists. ENOUGH SAID!

Is this a unique example? No. The loss of militia organization to the civilian populace has always. been followed by a change in government. We can look at the examples of Poland, after World War II, and the extensive role that militia, called partisans, played in the freeing of that nation from the grasp of Hitler's Germany, and after the war the government ended the militia, and began regulations on the kind of arms the citizens could posses. The result was that two years later, a backroom revolution brought Poland into the family of Communist nations. Nor is Poland an isolated example, Czechoslavakia followed the experience, as did Hungary, Romania, and Yugoslavia who had the largest militia armies at the close of the war.

In the cases of the communist takeovers, the governments themselves precipitated the crises to subvert the people and eliminate the militia within each nation. It was not that the people themselves could not own a weapon, even up until its formal demise you could own a shot gun or hunting rifle in the Soviet Union. Italy, Germany, all of the communist nations have gun control laws that allow the citizen to keep arms. What all of those nations have eliminated was the ability to be organized and bare the arms. In each and every one of the communist nations there was a backroom take over of the central governments, the elimina- tion of organizations and leadership that would have allowed for a militia or any kind of training and preparation was eliminated prior to the political haggling that brought down the free government to be replaced with the socialist government.

THE BRADY BILL

Handgun Control, Inc., was founded by Sarah Brady to lead in the legislation of the disarming of America. Sarah Brady is not for the rights of Americans, she is a Socialist through and through. In her own words she states:

"Our task of creating a SOCIALIST America can only succeed when those who would resist us have been TOTALLY DISARMED".
(emphasis added)

Who would oppose Mrs. Brady in her task? The Militia. Remember Thomas Jeffersons words that the primary purpose of the second amendment was to ensure that Americans as a last resort would be able to defend themselves against a tyrannical government.

Also, Sarah Brady was awarded by special lobbyist organizations to the tune of $250,000 for getting the Brady Bill passed.

MILITIA VERSUS ARMS

Many feel that it is too much to have a militia, that we need to just settle for the possession of arms. Or that a militia is too militaristic sounding and out of date. Has it been out of date for Bosnia, Croatia, the kurds, Suni? A gun and a few hundred rounds of ammunition? This is not the concept of the Founding Fathers and the purpose and level of preparation of the militia. The militia, under the second amendment, is to be able to bare arms, meaning to use them in a military confrontation. Not just pack them around the house, yard or forest. To stand on the second amendment means that you are willing, able, and have desires of belonging to a militia, to whom the right of keeping and bearing arms is guaranteed.

The security of a free state is not found in the citizens having guns in the closet. It is found in the citizenry being trained, prepared, organized, equipped and lead properly so that if the government uses its force against the citizens, the people can respond with a superior amount of arms, and appropriately defend their rights.

The framers had learned that the regular Army would not protect the rights of the people when the bureaucracy or a tyrant went mad with power. It was not the army, or the bureaucratic officials, members of parliament or Governors who made up the Revolutionary militia, Continental Congress, or Committees of Correspondence that started the war to protect the rights of man. It was John Q. Public - the common man. Thus, the right of the people to keep and bears is the essential element of a well regulated militia, which is the right of a free state for it's defense and security.

Our government by passing these Crime Bills and the Brady Bill have shown us that they are attempting to disarm the militias of the several states. With the National Guard belonging to the Armed forces of the United States the several states will have lost their power to protect and defend the citizens and property of their state.

It is not enough to have a gun, it takes knowing how to us it, when, and who you can trust and rely upon.

The lessons of history should not be lost on us. History if not studied is bound to be repeated. It us up to us to know and appreciate what our founding fathers gave us, and how hard they had to study to give it to us.

If the army has control of the militia, then the militia will be obedient to the command of the army, which is in the command of the government. If the militia is independent and viable, then only laws which are right and just will come forth from the government, keeping the populace supportive and loyal to the government. To balance the military power of the nation, with the might of the militia, will put at odds any scheme by government officials to use the force of the government against the people. Therefore, when the codes and statutes are unjust for the majority of the people, the people will rightly revolt, and the government will have to acquiesce without a shot being fired, because the militia stands vigilant in carrying out the will of the people in defense of rights, liberty and freedom.

The purpose of government is in the protection of the rights of the people, when it does not accomplish this, the militia is the crusader who steps forward, and upon it rests the mantle of defense of the rights of the people.

The United States of America, formerly a Republic, now hangs in the balance. We can leave our fate in the hands of corrupted, self serving, foreign mercenaries, trust our fate to their decisions, which are fostered by agencies of our government and private corporations in it's employ, denying us the freedom to "keep and bare arms," which is "necessary to the security of a free State," or we can return to the origninal intent of our founding fathers (who bled and died for this country), in the defense of our God given unalienable rights, protected by the Constitution, and guaranteed to us as citizens, by the Second Amendment.

Put simply, one cannot believe in the Right to keep and bear arms without believing in the "Militia".

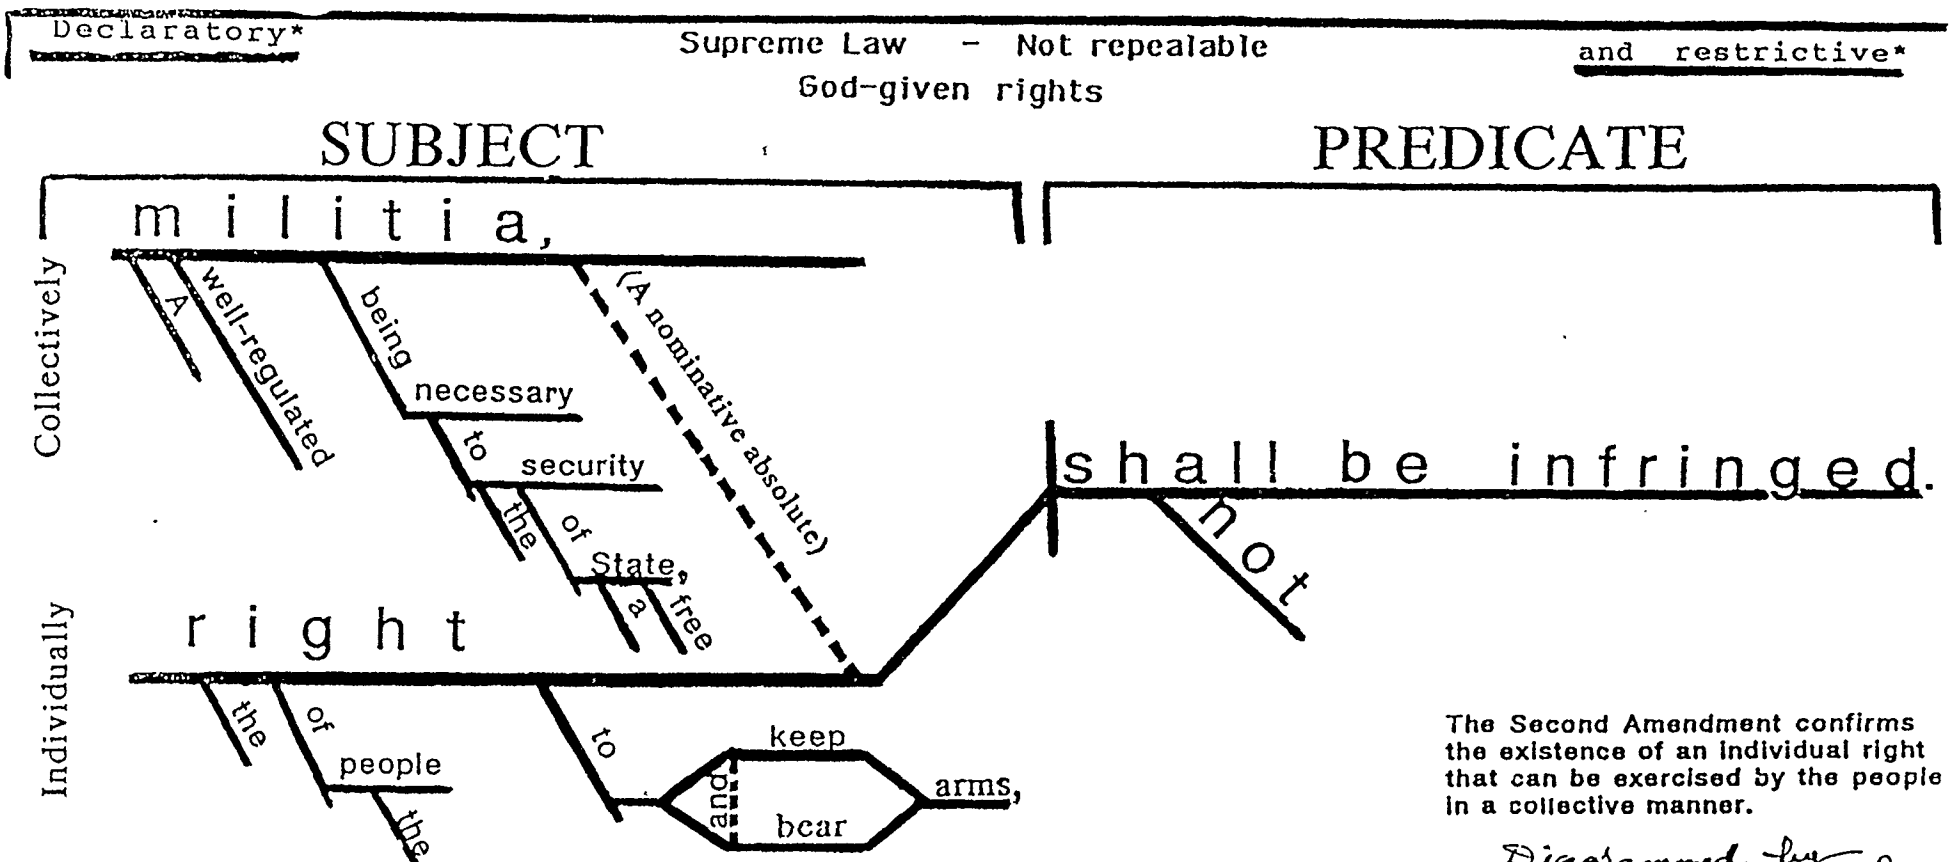
THE COMMAND IN THE SECOND AMENDMENT OF THE BILL OF RIGHTS

" ...the sentence means that the people are the militia... "



The Second Amendment confirms the existence of an individual right that can be exercised by the people in a collective manner.

Diagrammed by Bernadine Smith and it proves "that the people have the right that is mentioned."...A.C.BROCKI, teacher of Advanced English, a foremost expert in grammar, former Senior Editor for Houghton Mifflin.

* The Preamble to the Bill of Rights reads as follows:

The Conventions of a number of the States having, at the time of their adopting the Constitution, expressed a desire, in order to prevent misconstruction or abu[illegible]hat further declar[illegible] and restrictive clauses should be added: And as extending the ground of

INTERPRETING THE MEANING & PURPOSE OF THE SECOND AMENDMENT

By Bernadine Smith

The framers of the Constitution were quite skilled in the use and drafting of the English language. By putting the militia at the forefront of the sentence which composes the Second Amendment of the Bill of Rights, they stressed the importance of the collective use of the right to arms. The collective use has equal status with the individual aspects of this absolute right.

When the 1787 Constitution was ready to be submitted to the governors of the states for ratification, Patrick Henry, the immortal voice for liberty, lectured daily against it in the Virginia State House for three weeks, criticizing the Constitution, warning that it had been written "as if only good men will take office!" He asked what they would do when evil men took office!" "When evil men take office, the whole gang will be in collusion," he declared, "and they will keep the people in utter ignorance and steal their liberty by ambuscade!" (Entrapment from a concealed position.)

Henry asked, "What resistance could be made if the people have no guns?" "Your guns are gone!" "Your laws on treason are a sham and a mockery because of their mutual implication." He told them that a major reason for objecting to the Constitution was that "it does not leave us the means for defending our rights or waging war against tyrants!" "This Constitution will trample on your fallen liberty!" he declared. Henry warned that the new federal government was being given "too much money and too much power" and that it would end up consolidating all power unto itself, converting us "into one solid empire."Among other things, one of the areas he felt needed modification and limitation was the use of the treaty power, an area in which he forecast that "the president would lead in the treason." His fervor and graphic descriptions of "execrable tyranny" which would befall the people if they could not take arms against evil men who might take office, placed Patrick Henry in the fore-front of the effort to protect the natural rights of the people. He wanted the immediate opening of another Constitutional Convention to strengthen particular areas in the Constitution. That suggestion not being workable, he said,"The least you can do is guard it with a Bill of Rights!"

Young James Madison saw no need for a Bill of Rights since the new federal government was to exercise only those powers which were delegated to them. Henry said, "Let Mr. Madison tell me when did liberty ever exist when the sword and the purse were given up from the people? Unless a miracle shall interpose, no nation ever did, nor ever can retain its liberty after the loss of the sword and the purse." At first Madison could not envision the possibility of tyranny happening under this Constitution. Madison was blocked from taking a seat in the first Senate. That blow to one who had been the secretary of the Constitutional Convention caused him to re-think the probability of the danger. His promise to follow through with a proposed Bill of Rights garnered support for him to take a seat in the first House of Representatives. So it was that the Bill of Rights, palladium of man's natural rights, was finalize on Dec. 15, 1791 and it became the unrevokable and superior part of the Constitution. Patrick Henry placed all his hopes upon the vigilance of the people of the future to protect the liberty that he helped win in the War for Independence by their standing behind the Bill of Rights, forbidding any infringement or curtailment of not only the Second Amendment, but the sworn oath taken "to support and defend the Constitution".

Thomas Jefferson, our 3rd president, supported the the idea of a Bill of Rights, confirming the authority of the people by saying: "The strongest reason for the people to retain the right to keep and bears arms is, as a last resort, to protect themselves against tyranny in government." May the words Patrick Henry spoke always be heeded through all the ages to come, as he cautioned: "Guard with jealous attention the public liberty. Suspect everyone who approaches that jewel! Unfortunately, nothing will preserve it but downright force and whenever you give up that force, you are inevitably ruined!"

Militia of Montana
_____ County, Unit _____

DECLARATION

When, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for the Citizen's of this State, to exercise their right to protect and defend their lives, families, property and the right of this State to be free and independent, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to exercise their 2nd Amendment rights, which are guaranteed and protected by the Constitution of the United States of America.

We hold these truths to be self-evident; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness (property). That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. The history of the present federal government is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of absolute power and control over the citizen's of the State of Montana, and likewise, the rest of the several states of the union. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

TRAIN OF ABUSES

("The Declaration of Independence of 1776" was used as the outline for the following "Train of Abuses". Present day examples and connotations have been added.)

The present federal government has bribed the several states and their local governments into obeying their rules and regulations (which are contrary to the Constitution of the State of Montana and the Constitution of the United States of America) or they would withhold any grants and/or funds to said governments (do this or else);

For deteriorating our abilities to trade with one another without federal intervention, manipulation and control;

For imposing taxes on us without our consent;

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury (all tax fore-closures) and the disadvantaged deprived of proper defense;

For quartering large bodies of armed foreign troops among us and protecting them, by mock trials, from punishment for any murders which they have committed on the innocent inhabitants (Weaver, Waco, etc.) of these free and independent states;

The federal government has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance, often these officers being under foreign control and finance;

The federal government has given it's consent to agencies who have unconstitutionally plundered our homes, ravaged our property, burned our homes, and destroyed the lives of our people as well as murdering innocent citizen's of these United States.

For endeavouring to take away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our government, which our Founding Fathers bled and died for: without the consent of the governed, which is their right as free and independent citizens;

The federal government has rendered the several states defenseless by taking away their organized militia from them (incorporated in the national army), and is now in the process of disarming the unorganized militia by laws which are unconstitutional and detrimental to a free and independent State, thus, rendering the several states to all the dangers of invasion and convulsions from without as well as from within;

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms; to the judiciary, the legislative and the executive branches of this present government; our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury.

Nor have we remained silent to our fellow citizen's. We have warned them from time to time of the usurpations and travesties that this present federal government has done to them and continues to do to them; Some have listened; Some have not;

This present federal government has, by it's actions, declared war upon it's citizen's;

As our fellow citizen's have not consented to altering or abolishing the form of government guaranteed to us through the Constitution of the United States of America and the Constitution of the State of Montana, we, therefore, the able-bodied citizen's of the State of Montana, do, by and through the authority of the citizen's of the State of Montana and the citizen's of the several States united, have the right to protect and defend our lives, families, property and the right of the State of Montana to be a free and independent State, in the form our Founding Fathers enacted for our use;

THE FEDERALIST PAPERS

No. 28 - Hamilton - The militia is a voluntary force not associated or under the control of the state except when called out; a permanent or long standing force would be entirely different in make-up and call.

No. 46 - Madison - The highest number to which a standing army can be carried in any country does not exceed one hundredth part of the number of the souls, or one twenty-fifth part of the number able to bear arms. This proportion would not yield, in the United States, an army of more than twenty-five or thirty thousand men. To these would be opposed a militia amounting to near half a million of citizens with arms in their hands, of ficered by men chosen from among themselves, fighting for their common lib erties and united and conducted by governments possessing their affections and confidence. It may well be doubted whether a militia thus circumstanced could ever be conquered by such a proportion of regular troops. Besides the advantage of being armed, forms a barrier against the enterprises of ambition, more insurmountable than any which a simple government of any form can admit of. The governments of Europe are afraid to trust the people with arms. If they did, the people would certainly shake off the yoke of tyranny, as America did. Let us not insult the free and gallant citizens of America with the suspicion that they would be less able to defend the rights of which they would be in actual possession than the debased subjects of arbitrary power would be to rescue theirs from the hands of their oppressors.

No. 69 - Hamilton - The president, and government, will only control the militia when a part of them is in the actual service of the federal government, else, they are independent and not under the command of the president or the government. The states would control the militia, only when called out into the service of the state, and then the governor would be the commander in chief where enumerated in the respective state constitution.

INTENT

We, the able-bodied Citizen's of Montana, hold these Truths to be self-evident, that when government is instituted among men for the purpose of protecting their rights and liberties, turns against the people that empowered it, and strives to take away their rights and liberties, it is the DUTY of man to put on the cloak of liberty for the sake of protecting man-kind from government that is out of control and that has transformed itself into a Tyrant. Just as our Founding Fathers of this Country shook off their shackles of bondage, so must we.

THEREFORE, we, hereby solemnly publish and declare that as free, able-bodied Citizen's of the State of Montana do hereby pledge to exercise our right to protect and defend our lives, families and properties, by and through the authority of the free people of this state and of this nation; and to further this protection, we hereby form as members of the unorganized militia of the State of Montana, a volunteer organization to be known as the "Militia of Montana, _____ County, Unit _____".

ACTION ALERT ACTION ALERT!

BEWARE!!

NEW REGULATION PROPOSALS FOR NATIONAL FOREST SERVICE LANDS!

THESE REGULATION COULD RESTRICT YOUR FOREST ACTIVITIES!

The U.S. Forest Service has proposed new rules that could severely restrict many activities on the Nation Forest System. In the February 16th issue of the Federal Register (vol. 59, No.32, pages 7880 through 7892 the Forest Service lists rule changes they say are needed to provide protection for the public.

The proposed rule establishes a comprehensive revision of the acts prohibited in the National Forest System The proclaimed intent of the rule is to give Forest Service employees jurisdiction over criminal violation whe State or local authorities are unable to provide law enforcement services. According to the Forest Service local authorities are often unable to respond in a timely fashion to all but the most violent crimes.

Below we have listed just a few of the proposed regulation changes. These are direct laws printed in th Federal Register. Comments following  are concerns made by this organization.

THE FOLLOWING COULD BE PROHIBITED:

261.4 PUBLIC BEHAVIOR

(b) Using language, an utterance, or gesture, or engaging in a display or act that is:
(1) Obscene
(2) Physically threatening or menacing;

(c) Possessing, selling, cultivating, dispensing, or bartering for any controlled substance, alcoholi beverage, or contraband in violation of State or Federal law.

(d) Causing public inconvenience, annoyance, or alarm my making unreasonable loud noise.

(e) Being under the influence of any controlled substance or alcoholic beverage in violation of Stat or Federal law.

 (b) Exactly what language, utterance, or gesture could be OBSCENE, PHYSICALLY THREATENIN(OR MENACING to others? (d) What will the definition of unreasonable noise be that may cause a INCONVENIENCE, ANNOYANCE, or be ALARMING to others?

261.6 TIMBER AND OTHER FOREST PRODUCTS

(h) Removing any timber, tree, or other forest product, except as authorized by special us authorization, timber sale contract, permit, approved plan of operations or Federal law c regulation.

 This change could indicate a broadening of regulation to include casual possession and use of fore products such as berries, campfire wood, etc.- The INTENT OF THIS CHANGE IS BROAD AND VAGUE ITS IMPLICATIONS ARE SWEEPING. IT SHOULD BE STRONGLY OBJECTED!

ALL INFORMATION CONTAINED
HEREIN IS UNCLASSIFIED
DATE 10-22-78 BY SP4 BJP/MG

(a) Unauthorized livestock within the National Forest System or on other lands under Forest Service administrative co[redacted]

 This change states that THE OWNER OF ANY ANIMAL THAT INADVERTENTLY WANDERS ONTO A NATIONAL FOREST IS SUBJECT TO PROSECTION. IT SHOULD BE STRONGLY OBJECTED!

261.8 FISH AND WILDLIFE

The following are prohibited to the extent that Federal or State law is violated:

(a) Hunting, trapping, fishing, catching, molesting, killing, possessing, transporting, buying, selling, bartering, or offering to buy, sell, or barter any kind of wild animal, bird, fish, shellfish, or part thereof, or taking the eggs of any bird or fish.

261.9 PROPERTY ADMINISTRATED BY THE FOREST SERVICE

Except as provided by special use authorization, contract, approved plan or operations, or Federal law or regulation, the following are prohibited:

(c) Disturbing, damaging, excavating, digging, removing, transporting, possessing, buying, selling, bartering, or offering to buy, sell, or barter, any fossil or other paleontological resource; or prehistoric, historic, or archaeological resource, structure, site, artifact, or property.

(j) Removing any mineral or mineral material.

 This change could make rockhounds criminals, and anyone who has ever picked up a rock. It could prohibit the removal of mineral or mineral materials unless done in compliance with laws and regulations. Many of us have panned gold for fun an/or picked up mineral samples for rock collections. Mineral and mineral materials is so broad a category as to cover any rock on the ground. THIS SHOULD BE STRONGLY PROTESTED!

261.10 OCCUPANCY AND USE

Except as provided by special use authorization, contract, approved plan of operations, or federal law or regulation, the following are prohibited:

(d) Discharging a firearm...
(2) from a vehicle;

(g) Disseminating, posting, placing, or erecting any paper, notice, advertising material, sign, handbill, petition, or similar written and/or graphic matter.

(h) Operating or using in or near a campsite, developed recreation site, or over an adjacent body of water, any device which produces noise, such as a radio, television, musical instrument, motor, or engine, in such a manner and at such time so as to unreasonably disturb any person.

 (d) Currently handicapped licensed hunters may shoot from a vehicle. An exemption for handicapped hunters MUST be added. (g) Many campers post small signs up to direct friends to where they are staying. Under this new regulation, a camper could be prohibited from continuing this practice. (h) What noise level constitutes being unreasonably enough to disturb a person? Could the starting of your car, boat, ATV, engine, or maybe the noise of a chainsaw or skidder on a logging site, or perhaps the enjoyment of your radio, TV, at a low moderation may disturb some people. Who knows, maybe some people what to enjoy their camping with no noise what so ever. THIS REGULATION IS TOO BROAD. IT MUST BE CLARIFIED!

261.12 FOREST DEVELOPMENT ROADS AND TRAILS

The following are prohibited:

(e) Operating any vehicle in violation of State law, posted sign or traffic device.

(g) Operating or riding in any vehicle on a Forest development road without wearing seatbelts, if provided by the manufacturer.

 (e) The new section could be used to expand the enforcement of speed and other laws to snowmobiles. An exemption for oversnow access MUST be added. The explanation section (page 7885) for this revision asserts that State laws are applicable to Forest development roads. This is usually the case but not always. 36 CFR 212.7 permits the Forest Service to establish rules, or road orders in 36 CFR 261 which may conflict with State laws. A typical use of this provision is when a Forest allows, through approved travel plans, unlicensed vehicles to travel on primitive roads.

(g) Many believe seatbelt laws are beneficial, but they do vary from state to state. The explanation of the proposed rule makes clear that they intend to supersede state laws:

> "...reliance on some State seatbelt statutes could lead to inconsistency and confusion. This provision will ensure the protection afforded by seatbelts throughout the National Forest system regardless of individual State laws."

261.13 USE OF VEHICLES OFF ROADS

It is prohibited to operate any vehicle off Forest development, State or County roads:

(a) Without a valid operator's license or permit in possession if required by State law.

 This could be a "foot in the door" in restricting unlicensed youths from operating a snowmobile or trailbike.

261.14 DEVELOPED RECREATION SITES

The following are prohibited:

(r) Reserving any portion of the site for another person or party without permission of a Forest officer.

 This law is totally ridiculous! Many friends and neighbors enjoy visiting and camping together. This law could prohibit you from arriving a couple of hours early to a campground and reserving the adjacent camp spot for your friends.

261.53 SPECIAL CLOSURES

When provided by an order, it is prohibited to go into or be upon any area which is closed for the protection of:

(a) plants, animals, birds, fish, or shellfish.

 This regulation is to broad. This changes the existing regulation that allows closures for threatened, endangered, or sensitive species (grizzlies, moose, etc.). LOOK AT THE NUMEROUS CLOSURES WE NOW HAVE BECAUSE OF THREATENED AND ENDANGERED SPECIES. The new language would make the regulation so broad that for any reason, at any time, the Forest Service could close an area. Why change the rule that has been used (some would say abused) successfully in the past unless the intent is to simply broaden the already potent closure powers. Many people do NOT trust this regulation, we feel that is will only add to the burden of our access to Forest Service land.

251.34 FOREST DEVELOPMENT ROADS

(c) Using a road for commercial hauling or other commercial activities without a special use authorization or written authorization.

 In the rationale for this change the Forest Service indicates that "Authorization for commercial use of Forest development roads should not be limited to hauling a product; other commercial uses such as transporting heavy equipment should also be subject to this requirement." LOGGERS BEWARE OF THIS ONE!! Moving from job to job would be a red tape (and expensive) nightmare if this goes through!!

261.58 OCCUPANCY AND USE

When provided by an order, the following are prohibited:

(m) Discharging or possessing a firearm, air rifle, gas gun, or other device capable of causing injury to persons or wildlife or capable of causing property damage.

(bb) Possessing an alcoholic beverage.

(ee) Possessing, storing, or using any glass food or beverage containers.

 (m) The word POSSESSING is far more dangerous than discharging. Many people do not venture onto Forest Service land without a firearm to protect their lives from predators and criminals. The Forest Service does not have the right to tell anyone they may not POSSESS a firearm in order to protect their lives or private property. The law has been in enacted on National Park Service lands but SHOULD NOT BE ENACTED ON FOREST SERVICE LAND!

(bb) When a person is under the influence and is completely intolerably is one thing but to say you are prohibited from POSSESSING an alcoholic beverage is quite another! The rationale of this regulation is to prohibit "keggers". This seems reasonable, but if it is used indiscriminately, it could be used to further restrict and harass many people who enjoy setting around their campsites enjoying an alcoholic beverage. This regulation could prohibit you from doing so!

(ee) The rationale is to protect beach-goers from broken glass. This seems reasonable, but if it is used to indiscriminately, it could be used to further restrict and harass forest visitors.

WRITTEN COMMENTS ON THE PROPOSED U.S. FOREST SERVICE REGULATIONS MUST BE RECEIVED BEFORE MAY 18, 1994!

For over a decade, Montana people have asked congressional delegation to resolve the wilderness i with a state wide wilderness bill that we can live w Time and time again, wilderness bills have introduced that would be devastating to the State Montana and her people. Bills that would take produc lands out of resource management, bills that would away historic recreation, bills that did not adequate release language....but the last decade has been the tip of the ice berg! Thursday, March 17, 1 Congressman Pat Williams introduced a substitute bil his current bill, H.R. 2473. This substitute bill is grandaddy of them all.....

Total wilderness acreage	1,668,540
Total Special Management Acreage	239,820
Total Study Area acreage	259,700
Grand Total	2,168,060

We know that hundreds of phone calls have been mad Congressman Williams' office asking him to modify 2473. These requests have fallen on deaf ears! Ins of amending the bill to benefit the workers recreationists of Montana, quite the opposite happened! Additional acr was added, more study areas were added, more special management areas added, and requests for National Recreation Areas (NRA) were ignored.

Motorized and non-motorized recreationists throughout the s requested the Swan Crest and North Fork areas to be put into a NRA in memory of Pat Buls (Pat was one of the New Years Eve avalanche victi This request was ignored. People who have fought countless times to these areas open for motorized and non-motorized recreation were even bl for the deaths of the avalanche victims. This was a cruel and statement. Most of us feel that Congressman Williams is using a pers tragedy to further his and the Wilderness Association's political car with no regard for the victim's family members.

Several thousands of acres of wilderness and special management a were added to the Kootenai National Forest. This area has a unemployment rate now because of the shortage of timber sales, appeals, Congressman Williams even went as far as blaming the timber industry Northwest Montana of intentionally clearcutting an area in the form of word "HAC" on the Kootenai National Forest.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of productive resource and recrea lands are included in this bill. The old argument that we must pa statewide wilderness bill so other lands can be released is not accompli in this bill. It does nothing to end the debate! Why? Because of endangered species act, the appeals process, the Clean Water Act, Gra Reform, Mining Reform, Forest Management Act, etc. All this bill will d lock up more lands from the general public.

Since Montana people have NO representation in the House, we now mus out of state to ask fellow representatives for their help. We must ask to help preserve Montana jobs, our custom and culture, our recreati opportunities and our very way of life. Congressman Williams is decla that his bill is supported whole heartily by the Montana people. We make it known that he does not have our blessing on this bill. wilderness bill, just like so many wilderness bills in the past WILL NOT the wilderness debate. It WILL NOT release lands for timber harvest recreation, ranching and farming, mining, gas and oil exploration or other multiple use. The only people to gain anything from this bill is wilderness advocates. All this bill will do is lock up more productive a

WHEREAS, excessive federal burdens on local governments force combinations of higher local taxes and fees and/or reduce local services on citizens and local taxpayers; and

WHEREAS, federal mandates are too often inflexible, one-size-fits-all requirements that impose unrealistic time frames and specify procedures or facilities where less costly alternatives might be just as effective; and

WHEREAS, existing mandates impose harsh pressures on local budgets and the federal government has imposed a freeze on funding to help compensate for any new mandates; and

WHEREAS, the National Association of Counties, the International City Managers Association, the National League of Cities, and the U. S. Conference of Mayors, in conjunction with other state and local government representatives, have begun a national public education campaign to help citizens understand and then reduce the burden and inflexibility of unfunded mandates, beginning with a National Unfunded Day on October 27, 1993,

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the undersigned work to educate members of Congress about the impacts of federal mandates and actions necessary to reduce their burden on citizens as well as burdens on local and state government.

■ HATE CONFERENCE

'Militia' member denies racist links

BIG SKY (AP) — A Livingston man associated with the Montana Militia says charges that the organization is linked to racist organizations and harbors bizarre conspiracy theories are "grandiose crap."

Bob Fletcher was responding to comments by Ken Toole, the director of the Montana Human Rights Network, to about 50 law enforcement officials from around the region at a two-day conference on hate groups and anti-government movements.

Fletcher said the Montana Militia is concerned with issues of constitutional rights and government wrongdoing — things that he said groups such as the Human Rights Network refuse to acknowledge.

"These people have no idea of some of the things going on nationally," Fletcher said.

Fletcher attended the conference at Big Sky, sponsored by the U.S. attorney's office to discuss hate groups. He tried to challenge Toole during Toole's speech, but Toole responded that it was his speech, not Fletcher's.

When Toole and Fletcher met after Toole's speech, Fletcher said, "Some of the stuff you're doing is inaccurate." He said he resented what he called Toole's implication that members of the militia are racist.

"If you think something we've done is inaccurate, let us know," Toole said.

U.S. Attorney Sherry Scheel Matteucci, responding to Fletcher's comment, said: "I think we saw an example of confused thinking. He's an example of the kind of person who aligns with those groups."

Toole said the public should not assume that members of the militia are beer drinkers who "can't think and walk at the same time." Rather, he said, many are articulate and use issues such as gun control to drum up interest. A militia meeting in Bozeman in May drew 100 people.

Group: Militia efforts not related

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Samuel Sherwood says members of his United States Militia Association want nothing to do with the anti-government "Militia of Montana movement.

Human-rights activists contend the Montana movement has become a front for white supremacists.

Sherwood, a Blackfoot man who works as a contract computer technician at the Idaho National Engineering Laboratory, advocates semiautomatic weapon ownership for every American and says gun-control advocates "don't deserve to live in this nation."

He was the featured speaker in Coeur d'Alene during the weekend at the latest in a series of July events that included Militia of Montana meetings in Sandpoint and Coeur d'Alene and a Concerned Citizens of Idaho picnic in Coeur d'Alene.

So far, the militia and other groups are all talk, Kootenai County Sheriff's Sgt. Jerry Wiedenhoff said.

"We want to make sure we don't have any problems. But everybody's got their First Amendment rights, so we let those rights flourish," he said.

Sherwood said militia leaders in Montana "are fearful of their government and are arming themselves to protect themselves from it.

"Whereas we're arming ourselves ... to support, protect and defend our Constitution, our just laws and our duly authorized public servants."

He said David, John and Randy Trochmann and others leading the Militia of Montana are paranoid. The Trochmanns attended the northern Idaho meetings last month.

"They've become distrustful of everyone and everything. They're good, sincere people, but they're paranoid about everything," Sherwood said.

Randy Trochmann said he and his father David and uncle John have an undeserved reputation because John was once a featured speaker at an Aryan Nations Church meeting in Hayden Lake. Trochmann denied that the militia promotes white separatism or white supremacy.

"We're just telling people that the Second Amendment was to protect ourselves from tyranny in government," he said. "Any organization in the Northwest that speaks out against the government will attract people with those beliefs, I don't care what it is."

Trochmann said the militia movement aims to make people careful about trusting government too much by reminding them of government heavy-handedness in cases like the siege of Randy Weaver's cabin in northern Idaho and of David Koresh's compound in Waco, Texas.

"This is all about cleaning up government," he said. "I like to describe ourselves as watchdogs."

But the Montana Human Rights Network, in a May report on the militia movement, called the Trochmanns long-time racist activists and warned that the militia advocates formation of "domestic army to fight the government."

■ OFFICIALS MEET

Prosecutor leads forum on hate

By KEN PEKOC
Helena Independent Record

Montana U.S. Attorney Sherry Scheel Matteucci is hoping a two-day law enforcement conference this week will rattle the aim of hate and anti-government groups, which she believes are targeting the Northwest for expansion.

Matteucci and her staff in Billings have attracted several state and national speakers to Big Sky to swap notes on white supremacy, hate crimes against American Indians and anti-government groups, such as the "freemen" of Garfield County.

"The Northwest region is a target area for people who are dissatisfied with our form of government," Matteucci said. "We feel it's important to legislators, community leaders and law enforcement to be knowledgeable about the issues."

The conference starts Wednesday morning at Big Sky Resort and concludes Thursday afternoon. About 100 state and federal prosecutors and law authorities from Montana, Oregon and Idaho are expected to attend. The gathering is designed to help them curb hate groups and anti-government activists.

"We want them to know that we are not ignoring their presence and that their message of hate is not welcome in Montana," Matteucci said Monday in a telephone interview from Salt Lake City. "Hate is hate, whether it's an Indian person, a Hispanic person, a man or a woman. It's wrong."

Matteucci and staff member Beth Binstock organized the conference after Matteucci attended a similar gathering in Portland. One of the speakers she heard there, Danny Welch, director of the Southern Poverty Law Center of Montgomery, Ala., is scheduled to speak at Big Sky also. Welch's group exists solely to repel hate group activities, Matteucci said.

"Montana and other states in the Northwest are at risk of serious consequences, including potential violence on an individual basis and on an institutional basis" by organized groups such as the Ku Klux Klan and Militia of Montana, Matteucci said.

She said the Thompson Falls vicinity was at risk and applauded recent state and federal efforts at prosecuting anti-government activists in Garfield and Fergus counties. Those activists, who call themselves "freemen," don't recognize existing forms of government as legitimate and some members recently were convicted on charges of placing bounties on the heads of county office holders.

"We feel those prosecutions have set a very important and strong message to those people who intend to disrupt government activities, and to those residents looking for protection, too," Matteucci said. "The only way to combat this in a state like Montana is to do it together. No single agency has the time or resources to take this on.

"We've got to work together, so we are."

She said she's hoping the conference will spawn a "network of people who are committed to these efforts and who can share tactics and information that turns out to be successful in fighting hate."

Her office has been active in tracking hate crimes in Montana; about four months ago Matteucci created a task force whose members exchange information and develop strategies to curb the activities of anti-government groups.

Along with Matteucci, U.S. attorneys from Idaho and Oregon are expected to attend.

Other speakers on the agenda are Robert Hughes of Community Relations Service in Seattle and two members of the Department of Justice in Washington, D.C.

Among the Montana speakers are Attorney General Joe Mazurek; Kathleen Fleury of the governor's Office on Indian Affairs; Ken Toole of the Montana Human Rights Network; Don Dupuis, council member of the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes; Nick Murnion, Garfield County attorney; Bill Strizich, U.S. marshal for Montana; and Jim Cleaver of the Billings FBI office.

Executive Orders

What are Executive Orders?

Executive Orders are laws established by United States Presidents. These laws are not passed by the Congress or the Senate, and create an end-run around the Constitution. These laws begin as Executive Orders which are simply printed in the Federal Register. After thirty days these orders become law and carry the full impact of any law passed by the United States Congress. These laws are unconstitutional because the Constitution does not afford any person the right to creat laws by himself that negates the Constitution.

To understand just how this could all come about you need to open your eyes, your mind and your heart. What we have discovered is quite scary, very much unconstitutional and in every sense, acts of treason to the United States of America. There are individuals in this world, within this country, and in our own government who would like to rule the world, and they do believe that this is possible. They are and have been working towards this goal for decades. Some of the individuals caught up in this endeavor have been our very own elected officials. These power hungry individuals have corrupted our government and are working on sabotaging our freedom by destroying the Constitution of the United States, in order to establish the "New World Order" (a.k.a. "Global Community").

To bring about this New World Order, and ultimately the single World Government, there are several things that must come about: All other forms of government throughout the world must cease to function and thus the countries would become bankrupt. Because the Constitution is a document that safeguards the sovereignty of our nation it must be destroyed. Because of the genuine threat of the American militia, the American people must be disarmed, and become addicted to the government hand-outs and thus become "sheeple".

The American people have become so accustomed to their freedom, and the constitutional safeguards afforded them, that they have paid little if any attention to what is and could be happening around them. The international establishment has planned this, and are working to use this weakness to erode our freedom and take control of the United States.

— The Declaration of Interdependence, supported by several of our elected officials, moves the United States of America closer to the mandates of the United Nations Charter.
— The U.S. has entered into many United Nations treaties (Genocide Treaty, Human Rights Treaty and Total Disarmament Treaty) that steal away our rights under the "Bill of Rights". Despite the noble titles of these treaties, the truth of the motives of the U.N. become self-evident under the most fundamental scrutiny.
— The "War on Drugs" is the guise the Federal Government uses to legitamize the invoking of Martial Law tactics (under the Drug & Crime Emergency Act), while they continue to covertly import the drugs and weapons they claim to be fighting against. This guise conveniently facilitates the total disarmament of all weapons (public and private) as mandated by the United Nations.
— Without the complicity of the Federal Government, crime of this magnitude could not exist.

These Executive Orders, and other treasonous acts, establish the basis for the Federal Emergency Management Association (FEMA). FEMA has the power to completely rule over the American people, any time the President should decide to declare Martial Law. If this should ever happen the Director of FEMA (an unelected official) has the authorization to enact all Executive Orders, giving him full dictatorial control over all of the United States, its resources, and its people. Martial Law suspends all prior or existing laws, functions, systems and programs of civil government, and replaces them with a military system. These systems include the courts, mail, sanitation, aviation, firefighting, police, agricultural services, health, education and welfare. The American people and all their belongings become chattel of FEMA, and the United Nations Peace Keeping Forces will be in absolute control of our country.

Sounds a bit preposterous, doesn't it? Yes, but there are those individuals who feel so secure in what they are doing to gain this control, that they have indeed set themselves above the law, or perverted the nature of the law into new laws to protect their conspiracy. Laws that are made in secrecy are a threat to each of us, and must be rescinded if we are to remain a free people. There is evidence of all of this if you would but ask and seek the truth.
